Just a few words to summarise the artistic sense a family holds in its soul, the sense of art that has been passed down through the generations from the post-war period to the present day. The passion and inspiration remain undiminished, resulting from Florence’s artistic tradition and the continuous coming and going of people enamoured with the city’s piazzas and streets and enchanted by the physicality of the inanimate marble given extraordinary life by talented hands. And the same applies to a simple headress, born in Tuscany but travelling all over the world.
“The sea does not like to be restrained.”

- Rick Riordan, The Lightning Thief
“My soul is full of longing for the secret of the sea, and the heart of the great ocean sends a thrilling pulse through me.”

- Henry Wadsworth Longfellow
Many hats suitable for the season, always different and wearable, made of thin straw, natural or high-tech fabrics and by all the creativity and the passion to keep an old and modern craftwork alive in parallel with the original, inventive Italian style.

“Hats for special women”
Angiolo Frasconi
As a town of artists and artisans, Florence still preserves handicraft, which has elsewhere almost disappeared. Today just like yesterday we create hats by working with the aid of antique machinery, but with genuinely handmade finishing. Past and present merge in order to continue creating new accessories for a modern and international lifestyle, but always with a Tuscan touch.

“Today just like yesterday”
Angiolo Frasconi
“I felt once more how simple and frugal a thing is happiness: a glass of wine, a roast chestnut, a wretched little brazier, the sound of the sea. Nothing else.

- Nikos Kazantzakis, Zorba the Greek
“I may not be as strong as I think, but I know many tricks and I have resolution.”

- Ernest Hemingway,
  The Old Man and the Sea
“What you don't see backstage is what really controls the show.”

- Sarah Sutton